Designed for New Zealand conditions, fully maintained with mechanical history and rolling replacement of auxiliary items, this boat is ready for this long hot summer

Highly optioned and well maintained, this is a luxurious vessel offering outdoor living, exceptional offshore performance, and meticulous attention to detail.

The 2003 Genesis 400 Targa, tailored for the New Zealand market, offers an exquisite blend of entertainment and outdoor living. Its spacious open-plan cockpit, complemented by a versatile hard top, defines the essence of leisurely boat life.

Crafted to excel in offshore conditions, this vessel's forward-designed hull ensures a smooth, dry ride, devoid of the usual pounding or plowing through waves. The interior cabins, adorned with opulent fabrics and materials, rival luxurious five-star hotel rooms, while the expansive saloon/galley area exudes class.

What truly sets the Genesis 400 apart is its well-thought-out cockpit layout and fixed hardtop, complete with glass screens, ensuring enjoyable boating regardless of the weather. The cockpit offers ample space, comfortable seating, and convenient facilities, including a folding table with recessed drink holders.

The rear boarding/swim platform is a standout feature, accommodating inflatables or personal watercraft with ease, featuring 2 live bait tanks, and doubling as an entertainment or cooking area when anchored or tied up with other boats. The boat's design pays meticulous attention to detail, delivering a powerful, smooth, and quiet riding hull.

Powered by twin 260hp Volvo KAMD44P EDC diesel stern drives, this vessel effortlessly reaches a top speed of 28 knots at 4000rpm, with ample power for cruising. It smoothly transitions from displacement to planing mode, ensuring a seamless boating experience.

In summary, the 2003 Genesis 400 Targa for the New Zealand market is a testament to luxury, innovation, and exceptional performance—a vessel that encapsulates the new era for Genesis Marine.
